

Marine Biologist Nidia Chacon at the Caye Caulker Marine Reserve turtle display. Ocean Academy apprenticeship Mercedes teaches primary school students about turtles.

Ocean Academy students David and Mercedes, and volunteer Meagan, help marine biologists conduct mangrove growth measurements on the north side of Caye Caulker.

School Field Trip to Half Moon Caye. Students and chaperones helped the Audubon Society rangers with their invasive coconut eradication program. Removing coconuts allows the zericote and littoral forest to grow, which in turn provides habitat for the booby and frigate birds.

